"Love Me Tender Love Me Sweet..."

Reported by Stu Carson

President John called this "ode to Valentines" meeting to order with a joke about a woman who never married who wants no male pall bearers at her funeral... "they wouldn't take me out when alive, so they won't be taking me out when I'm dead!"...Then he introduced his lovely sweetie Linda to begin our program. Celebrating their 40th anniversary this year, Linda offered some inspiring words of wisdom. "In some traditions the bird that flies over indicates the type of man you will marry..." the bird that flew over her indicated she would marry a NERD! Linda read the club a touching "Ode to John" poem and she went on to say that the most valuable assets they possessed that helped hold them together as a couple; family heritage, children, business together, and attending a marriage encounter weekend.

John said of Linda "with deep, deep admiration for all the things she is that I am not; kind, compassionate, considerate. The sacrifices she has made to support me. Stunning sense of humor & love of laughter." Together John and Linda became well educated and gained financial stability in marriage before children. 7yrs of marriage before children, (see SWEETHEARTS pg 3)

(SWEETHEARTS) allowed them to get to really know each other. Financial stability allowed her to be a stay at home mom and she supported his decision to make a major career change in '88.

Kevin & Diane McGinty, have been married for 37 years. Some good advice Kevin received early on "Every day when you wake up, turn to wife and apologize... for the things you will do that day!". Parents role model on both sides. Diane's father, husband to wife for 58 yrs, and when she was ill he saw service to her as a privilege. Kevin- humility is easy! Fun & surprises, for example the time Kevin came home the kids were all gone and Diana kid-napped him from one surprising place to another. Diane- Read "365 Ways to Say I love You", for example wife to draw a moustache on her face, only problem was when a stranger instead of Kevin showed up at the door!

When the stress of kids came, purposed to stay in touch with each other. Both- Marriage Encounter Weekend was a real turning point in ability to communicate. Men & woman REALLY are different, Kevin has learned to understand the way women talk. Words are key, to build up, praise, gratitude... very careful not to say something that would later cringe about. Have made it a point to learn about each other's interests, for example Diane about football.. Kevin reading fine books to children.. she loves cooking, he cleans up. Kevin- Final words of wisdom, "A happy wife, is a happy LIFE!"
